Friday 8th September 2023

Dear parents and carers,

I hope you have all had a really good summer with your families.

I just wanted to write to you and provide an update on the start to the new academic year. There has been a huge improvement in the standards of uniform for the vast majority of students. This has only been possible with your support. I would like to thank you for responding so positively to the two letters that Mr Ward sent out before the summer break, reminding parents of the school's uniform policy and expectations.

What has impressed me even more, is how the students have responded and adjusted to the new higher expectations around respect, tolerance, and their attitude to learning. Ash Green School feels completely different to the school I walked into back in January. This has only been possible thanks to your support, the staff's hard work and most importantly, the way our students have responded to my challenge of significantly raising the bar – I honestly could not be prouder of them at this stage.

One of the things I would like to do this term is give parents the opportunity, if they would like, to have a tour during the school day to see how the students and staff have transformed Ash Green. I am very confident that if you have the time and get the opportunity to walk around the school, you will completely understand why I am so proud of your children. I will discuss this idea with my team and put a proposal together in terms of how this could work, which I will obviously communicate with you when finalised.

On a separate note, Year 11 parents, I will write to you next week to outline everything that we are putting in place to make sure that 11 students are fully prepared for the summer examinations in 2024. They may seem a long way away; however, if we are all serious about making sure those GCSE outcomes are extremely strong we need to start now and that is what I intend to do.

Parents of post 16 students will receive a similar letter from Mr Walford outlining our plans for Year 13 students.

Best wishes,

Mr F. Choudhury
